

Position Green partners up with SLR

October 28, 2024

The global sustainability consultancy firm SLR and Position Green have entered into a partnership. Through the partnership, SLR becomes a strategic partner to Position Green's ESG software, offering their customers software support for sustainability reporting and strategic sustainability work.

"At Position Green, we are committed to empowering organizations on their sustainability journeys by using data and actionable insights. Our partnership with SLR Consulting aligns perfectly with our mission to offer comprehensive sustainability solutions that are both strategic and practical. SLR's deep technical knowledge, combined with Position Green's innovative software platform, will enable our customers to take meaningful, measurable steps towards decarbonization, responsible supply chains, and meeting regulatory standards. Together, we are excited to help drive the sustainability transition forward." Joachim Nahem, Position Green's Executive Chairman.

SLR is uniquely placed to support businesses in developing their ESG strategies, decarbonisation plans, natural capital tactics, and aligning with mandatory reporting requirements. Through this partnership, SLR will be able to offer their clients Position Green's software for ESG Reporting and Data Management, complementing their strategic consultancy services.

"SLR understands the importance of combining our technical expertise with software solutions that help address our clients' challenges. In partnering with Position Green, SLR's technical, regulatory and sector knowledge will allow us to support Position Green clients with the practical and achievable steps of their sustainability journeys, including ESG strategies, decarbonisation plans, natural capital tactics and aligning with mandatory reporting. We're delighted with the partnership and look forward to unlocking new sustainability opportunities together." - Bradley Andrews, SLR's Chief Executive Officer.
